Commendation

Honoring

The Prometheus Symphony Orchestra

In honor of the start of their 61st season, and in recognition of their storied history of uplifting musical performances, Oakland At-Large Councilmember Rowena Brown and District 4 Councilmember Janani Ramachandran recognize the Prometheus Symphony Orchestra.

For more than sixty years, the all-volunteer orchestra has upheld a remarkable tradition of excellence, with many members having played together for decades, devoting themselves to their great performances. Guided by inspiring music directors, supported by loyal audiences, and sustained by members who not only make the music but also organize, promote, and fund each season, the orchestra exemplifies commitment, collaboration, and love for music.

The Prometheus Symphony Orchestra celebrates the benefits that music brings to the mind, body, and soul, ensuring these benefits are accessible to all by offering free concerts for Oakland's diverse community. In this way, the orchestra makes its passion and artistry accessible to community members far and wide.

On this day, September 28, 2025, Councilmembers Rowena Brown and Janani Ramachandran hereby commend the Prometheus Symphony Orchestra.
